YASP carries out this mission by providing space for incarcerated young people to express their voices creatively, building platforms to share those voices with the world at large, and helping young people develop as leaders and organizers of their communities both within and beyond the prison walls. YASP offers weekly workshop to youth incarcerated as adults in the Philadelphia Prison System, workshops for young people in schools and community centers, and peer mentoring and support for any young people who have been incarcerated or who are targeted by the school-to-prison pipeline and mass incarceration. YASP is building a youth-led movement to repeal the laws that allow young people to be tried and incarcerated as adults in Pennsylvania, and YASP welcomes anyone who wants to join us in this movement.*This resource is not limited to those living with HIV/AIDS.Phone: 267-571-9277
